REPORT SUMMARY

On Council’s direction, the City of Vancouver convened a committee comprising four independent and qualified individuals to review and provide recommendations on the compensation framework for Council members and Park Board Commissioners, as well as the staff support and other resources provided to Councillors in the execution of their official duties. The independent committee has now completed its review and delivered a set of recommendations for consideration by Council (Appendix A).

This report sets out a number of issues and implications associated with implementation of the committee’s recommendations, such as may be directed by Council.

COUNCIL AUTHORITY/PREVIOUS DECISIONS

On February 3, 2015, Council passed the following motion calling for an independent review of compensation and resources provided to Council and Park Board.

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED THAT Council direct staff to recommend an independent, qualified individual and an appropriate budget, which includes the capacity for related research, to conduct a review of Council compensation and resources, with a goal of reporting back to Council by June 30, 2015, including recommendations for:
1. Changes to the current formula for calculating wages and benefits for Councillors and Park Board Commissioners, if appropriate, taking into account best practices in other jurisdictions of similar size as well as relevant benchmarks for compensation;

2. Appropriate additional compensation for the Deputy Mayor and Acting Mayor in view of the change in duties contemplated by Council, as well as for the duty Councillor on call; and

3. Changes, if required, to the resources available to Councillors, including staff, to ensure Councillors are able to respond to citizens’ needs in an appropriate and timely way.

On March 24, 2015, Council accepted a recommendation from staff to convene a committee of independent individuals to conduct the above-referenced review.

REPORT

Background/Context

Section 196 of the Vancouver Charter authorizes Council to provide, by by-law, for remuneration to Council members for discharge of the duties of office. The By-law may provide for greater remuneration for the Mayor, Deputy Mayor and Acting-Mayor than for other Council members. In addition, section 498B of the Vancouver Charter authorizes Council to provide for payments to Park Board members in the same manner as permitted for members of Council.

The current compensation framework for the Mayor and Councillors is established pursuant to By-law 7465, the By-law to Provide Remuneration for the Members of Council. The current compensation framework for the Park Board Chair and Park Board members is established pursuant to By-law 7015, the By-law to fix the amount to be paid annually to the Commissioners of the Board of Parks and Recreation.

The By-law stipulating the remuneration for Park Board Commissioners was enacted by Council in July 1992. It has not been subject to any revisions since that date.

The By-law stipulating the remuneration for Mayor and Council was enacted in September 1995 and reflects a set of recommendations provided to Council in July 1995 by an independent Councillors’ Compensation Review Committee (the “1995 Committee”).

The 1995 Committee was struck to advise Council on the compensation levels for the Mayor and Councillors, as well as a system to provide for ongoing adjustment of those compensation levels over time. In its report to Council, the 1995 Committee articulated a number of foundational assumptions and principles, including the recognition of that the service performed by Councillors and the Mayor is demanding and important. The 1995 Committee also found that members of Council commit to work hours that, while irregular, typically exceed 40 hours per week and are appropriately considered to constitute full-time employment.
In its recommendations, the 1995 Committee endorsed an explicit and ongoing relationship between the salary of a City Councillor and the average earnings of a Vancouver resident who is employed on a full-time basis. The Committee further called for a mechanism whereby Councillors’ annual salary would be adjusted annually on the basis of an objective index derived from data compiled by Statistics Canada.

With respect to compensation for the Mayor, the Committee recommended preservation of the ratio between the Mayor’s and Councillors’ salaries as existed at that time, calling for the Mayor’s salary to be set at a multiple of 2.27 times the base salary of a Councillor.

The construct advanced by the 1995 Committee for Council compensation was implemented in September 1995 and has remained in effect since that time.

Pursuant to Council’s direction to undertake a fresh review of compensation and resources for elected officials, staff identified a number of individuals who do not have any direct business or relationship with the City and who, taking into account their credentials and professional experience, are in a position to provide Council with considered and credible advice on such matters. Staff also endeavoured to identify candidates with diverse backgrounds who would bring to their mandate a range of perspectives. Four individuals accepted the invitation to serve as members of the Compensation Review Committee (the “2015 Committee”):

- Elaine Doyle, Labour Mediator/Arbitrator (Committee Chair)
- Steve Butz, President and CEO, YMCA of Greater Vancouver
- Ida Goodreau, Adjunct Faculty, UBC; Corporate Director; and Former CEO, Vancouver Coastal Health
- Jim Sinclair, Former President, BC Federation of Labour

The 2015 Committee held its initial meeting on August 11, 2015. In total, the 2015 Committee convened on 7 occasions, both in person and via conference call, to undertake its mandate. The Committee’s deliberations were supported by staff through the provision of general background information as well as responses to specific inquiries from the Committee.

The materials considered by the 2015 Committee are referenced as Appendices to the Committee’s report. Those documents include two surveys conducted on the City’s behalf by Mercer, a global human resources and compensation consultancy.

The recommendations delivered by 2015 Committee represent the product of a very thoughtful consideration of the questions set out by Council in its motion of February 3, 2015, a comprehensive analysis of the relevant information and a diligent effort by the Committee in the production of its report. Staff are appreciative of the significant time commitment by Committee members to the process and the seriousness with which, individually and collectively, they approached their mandate.

Strategic Analysis

For the most part, the recommendations provided by the 2015 Committee for consideration by Council stand on their own and do not call for additional commentary from staff. However, there are a number of considerations related to the implementation of specific recommendations that warrant explanation or elaboration.
1. Effective date of remuneration changes

As referenced by the 2015 Committee in its report, changes to the construct and term of the Deputy Mayor and Acting Mayor appointments took effect at the beginning of 2015. Those changes were assessed by the 2015 Committee as a factor relevant to its recommendation regarding remuneration for Councillors, other than the Deputy Mayor.

Council does not have authority to enact a change to the by-laws governing remuneration for Council or Park Board with retroactive effect. However, it would be feasible to implement one or more one-time payments for members of Council and/or Park Board, as Council may deem appropriate in recognition of the timing of the above-referenced changes.

2. Health and welfare benefits

The 2015 Committee has recommended that the City provide members of Council with extended health, dental and group life insurance coverage equivalent to those benefits provided to exempt staff. At present, members of Council are eligible to access benefit coverage through the City, but at their own expense. Several members of Council have elected to purchase that coverage.

Pursuant to Section 195(6) of the Vancouver Charter, the City is presently precluded from making payment for medical, dental or insurance premiums for Council members and their dependents. Thus, as recognized by the 2015 Committee, implementation of its recommendation with respect to benefits would require a legislative amendment by the Province of BC.

At this time, staff are not able to provide Council with any indication or advice regarding the likelihood or timing of an amendment to Section 195 of the Charter.

Staff are seeking direction from Council regarding any interim adjustment to remuneration pending an amendment to the Vancouver Charter such as would enable implementation of the 2015 Committee's recommended approach regarding benefits.

3. Staffing and other resources for Council

The 2015 Committee acknowledges the advancement in communications technology since 1995 and the commensurate implications for elected officials related to the volume of contacts with constituents and expected level of responsiveness. The 2015 Committee also expresses the opinion that members of Council must be afforded an appropriate level of support to effectively fulfil their roles. However, given the level of detailed information that Committee members felt would be required to develop specific guidance regarding changes to staff support and/or other resources, the 2015 Committee declined to provide Council with a determinative recommendation in this regard and has referred the matter for assessment by staff.

Staff concur that the volume of communication with Mayor and Council, compounded by the City's current processes for managing correspondence and other contacts, represents a significant challenge. Staff are comfortable with the 2015 Committee’s referral of this issue and propose to undertake a fulsome assessment of correspondence management, research support and other needs on the part of Council with a view to providing specific recommendations within the first quarter of 2016. Staff recommend that this assessment include one-on-one interviews with members of Council to better understand the nature of the demands and measures that might be of value.

To date, it has proven difficult to draw useful conclusions from a review of systems and practices in place in other cities given the absence of verifiable data regarding costs and outcomes. Nevertheless, staff will include an examination of like municipalities in their assessment.

4. Remuneration adjustments for 2016

Under the existing by-law governing remuneration for members of Council, base salaries for Councillors and the Mayor are subject to an adjustment on January 1, 2016. That adjustment is based on the percentage increase in the average weekly wage for British Columbia in November 2015, as reported by BC Stats, as compared to the value of that indicator reported for November 2014.

For 2015, the above calculation resulted in a 0.82% increase to the base salaries for Councillors and the Mayor.

At this time, BC Stats has not yet released the average weekly wage data for November 2015. However, staff expects that data to be published shortly. As soon as the information is available, staff will undertake the calculation of the 2016 adjustment and will advise Council of the result.

Subject to alternate direction from Council, staff will prepare for the implementation of the 2016 adjustment to base salaries on January 1, 2016, as well as any other changes Council may determine as appropriate in the context of the recommendations provided by the 2015 Committee.

5. Duty councillor supplement

The Committee recommendations include additional remuneration to reflect the added duties of the duty councillor. As the Vancouver Charter contemplates an equal remuneration to each councillor, it is recommended that such considerations be included in the calculation of the base Council salary or otherwise implemented in a manner that provides for equivalent treatment.

Implications/Related Issues/Risk

Financial

The 2015 Committee’s recommended changes to compensation for Council and Park Board would entail an incremental cost to the City. Using 2015 salaries as the basis for calculation, staff estimates the total annualized cost of the various recommended adjustments as follows:
• On-duty supplement for Councillors: $34,236
• Health and welfare benefits for Mayor and Councillors: $33,528
• Transition allowance for Mayor and Councillors: $16,176^
• Base remuneration adjustment for Park Board: $19,140

^ Cost estimate does not take into account effect of 8 week cap for service in excess of 8 years.

The 2015 Committee also recommended that the City provide one year of income continuity following the completion of a Council member’s term where that member becomes disabled due to illness or injury during her or his term in office. Given the relatively low probability of that cost materializing in any given year, staff have not attempted to produce an annualized cost estimate.

For reference, the total cost of base remuneration for Council and Park Board in 2015, including the stipend payable to the Deputy Mayor, is estimated at $933,369.

Human Resources/Labour Relations

Amendment of the by-laws governing remuneration for Council and Park Board would have no direct implication in relation to the compensation provided to unionized or exempt staff. As the employer of City staff, Council establishes compensation for its employees through negotiated collective agreements and its employment contracts with exempt staff.

Legal

Should Council wish to adopt any of the changes to remuneration as discussed in this report, Council should instruct the Director of Legal Services to bring forward the necessary remuneration by-laws for consideration by Council. As well, should Council wish to seek amendments to the Vancouver Charter to authorize the payment of extended health, dental and group life insurance coverage premiums for the Mayor and Council, Council should instruct the Director of Legal Services to request such legislative amendments from the Province.

CONCLUSION

The independent committee established to review compensation and support for elected officials has now completed its work and delivered to Council a report setting out a series of recommended changes. Staff have identified a number of considerations, as set out above, in respect of which Council may wish to provide specific direction for purposes of implementing any changes to the existing regulatory regime governing remuneration for Council and Park Board.

Summary
Vancouver City Council appointed this Committee to review the compensation paid to Councillors, Park Board Commissioners, the Deputy Mayor, Acting Mayor and Duty Councillors, and to make recommendations for change, if appropriate. Council also sought a review of the resources available to Councillors. The Committee was supported in its work by City staff and we thank them for their very capable assistance.

Based on the information we reviewed, the Committee came to the following key conclusions:

- The issues and concerns that Councillors deal with are pressing and substantial to the operation of the City of Vancouver and their compensation should reflect the importance of their work.

- In addition to attending to regular Council business, Councillors put in many hours of preparation time, and attend to civic engagement commitments and other duties related to their office. We find that the Councillor role continues to be equivalent, at least, to full-time employment.

- We are of the view that the best method of determining the Councillor salary continues to be the method established in 1995, that is, to base it on the average salary of a full-time employed person in Vancouver. We also find that the current method of determining the Mayor’s salary continues to be sound.

- We are persuaded that the health and welfare benefits provided to Councillors and the Mayor significantly lag behind those provided to city council members in comparable jurisdictions and that they should be improved.

- We note that City Council members may face a period of transition upon leaving office and find that an allowance to address that gap should be provided.

- We believe that Councillors must have the staff and resources they require to fulfill their roles.

- We note that the stipend for Park Board Commissioners has not kept pace with inflation and find it should be adjusted to bring it up to date.

Recommendations

1. That the Deputy Mayor continue to receive a supplement equal to 22% of the Mayor’s monthly salary for performing in this role.

2. That those Councillors who are not the Deputy Mayor receive a supplement to base salary equal to one-ninth of the annual Deputy Mayor’s supplement for performing in the Duty Councillor role.

3. That if Council is inclined to provide compensation for the Acting Mayor role, in addition to the Duty Councillor supplement a Councillor receives, that the Deputy Mayor stipend (i.e., 22% of the Mayor’s monthly salary) be divided between the two roles based on the proportions Council deems appropriate.
4. That the City continue to use the BC average weekly earnings as the annual adjustment factor for the Councillor salary, as per the past practice between census years.

5. That should the mandatory long-form census be reinstated, it continue to be used to determine annual adjustments to adjust the base Councillor salary.

6. That Council member compensation be reviewed on a four-year cycle commencing 2019.

7. That the City take the necessary steps to seek the legislative change required to permit the provision of health and welfare benefits to members of Council and the Mayor.

8. That should a Councillor or the Mayor become disabled during their term of office, they be eligible for up to one year of income continuity beyond their term.

9. That Councillors and the Mayor be eligible for one week of transition allowance for every year of service on Council to a maximum of eight weeks’ salary; and that to qualify for transitional assistance, Council members must complete their term on Council.

10. That within six months of this report, City staff assess the resources and support staff available to Councillors and increase them appropriately.

11. That Park Board Commissioner compensation be adjusted on a one-time only basis using the CPI – Vancouver (Stats Canada) for the period 1995 to 2015 to determine the increase.
12. That going forward, the compensation for Park Board Commissioners be adjusted on an annual basis using the same formula as that proposed for Councillors, and that their compensation be reviewed in four years (2019) as well.

Background

On February 3, 2015, Council resolved to direct staff to engage an independent, qualified individual to conduct a review of Council compensation and resources to report back with recommendations for:

1. Changes to the current formula for calculating wages and benefits for Councillors and Park Board Commissioners, if appropriate, taking into account best practices in other jurisdictions of similar size, as well as relevant benchmarks for comparison;

2. Clarifying the duties and appropriate additional compensation for the Deputy Mayor and Acting Mayor in view of the change in duties contemplated by Council, as well as for the Duty Councillor on call; and

3. Changes, if required, to the resources available to Councillors, including staff, to ensure Councillors are able to respond to citizens’ needs in an appropriate and timely way.

Council later endorsed the engagement of a review committee (rather than an individual). The members of the Committee engaged to undertake this review are: Elaine Doyle, Labour Arbitrator; Ida Goodreau, former CEO, Vancouver Coastal Health; Jim Sinclair, former President, BC Federation of Labour; and Steve Butz, President and CEO, YMCA. City of Vancouver staff provided resources and support to the Committee. [A listing of the materials provided to the Committee is attached as Appendix A.]

The Committee convened on August 11, August 25, September 9, September 21, October 13, November 5 and 23, 2015. Over the course of these sessions, the Committee reviewed background materials provided by City staff, considered comparators, discussed various approaches to address the issues, and ultimately formulated recommendations.

Discussion

We have considered the issues under the following categories:

1. Compensation
   a. Salary
   b. Benefits
2. Staff and Resources Available to Councillors
3. Park Board Commissioners

1. Compensation

a. Salary

The system of compensation for City Council members was last reviewed in 1995 when a Compensation Review Committee was formed and a report issued (the 1995 Report). This Committee has had the benefit of the 1995 Report as part of our review process. Like that Committee, we seek to recommend a system of compensation that is fair and reasonable, that avoids financial barriers to those running for office and is also seen to be fair by taxpayers.

The 1995 Committee recommended that the salary for Councillors be comprised of a base salary amount, with an objective formula for annual increases. It recommended the base salary be an estimate of the average salary of a full-time employed person in Vancouver. To maintain the relationship between the average full-time employed Vancouver resident and Councillors, the 1995 Committee further recommended that Councillors’ salaries be indexed to the census figures for the average earnings of full-time employed Vancouver residents. Between census years, the average employment earnings for all of BC would be used to index Councillors’ salaries. The 1995 Committee also recommended that the Mayor receive 2.27x the Councillor salary and the Deputy Mayor receive additional salary in the amount of 22% of the Mayor’s salary as compensation for duties performed on behalf of the Mayor. City Council adopted these recommendations and this system of compensation continues to date.

This Committee thoroughly considered whether the Councillor salary continues to meet the objectives of the 1995 compensation review and, if not, how compensation could be adjusted objectively, in a fair and reasonable manner. The Committee reviewed information about compensation practices in comparable municipalities collected through a market survey conducted by Mercer.

The Committee also reviewed information provided by Councillors to Mercer about their duties and the time they spend on them. After reviewing that information, the Committee concluded, like the 1995 Committee, that the duties of Councillors continue to require a commitment equivalent to full-time employment.

Councillors

The Committee compared the Councillor base salary with the base salary for councillors in jurisdictions of comparable size using the Mercer market survey. The market comparison was complex and included consideration of a variety of factors such as size of budget and population, the range of services provided by the comparison cities and the fact that participation in regional governance for Metro Vancouver entails additional compensation for some Vancouver Councillors. Given the various elements that were not comparable in the comparison cities, we concluded that the best method of determining the Councillor salary continues to be the method established in 1995, that is, to base it on the average salary of a full-time employed person in Vancouver.

We also reviewed information about the Deputy Mayor, Acting Mayor and Duty Councillor roles. In particular, we heard that until 2015, the practice was that the Deputy Mayor role was rotated amongst the Councillors on a monthly basis. As well, the Councillor appointed Deputy Mayor was assigned the role of Acting Mayor. Pursuant to the 1995 Committee’s recommendation, a Councillor acting as Deputy Mayor was paid a supplement equal to 22% of the Mayor’s monthly salary for performing in these roles.
Recently, Council concluded that the City is better served by having one Councillor appointed as the Deputy Mayor. In Council’s view, this change allows for better briefing and consistency in the services provided to citizens. Council also decided that a Councillor other than the Deputy Mayor ought to be Acting Mayor.

Despite the appointment of a full-time Deputy Mayor, we understand that the increase in duties required of the Mayor (and Deputy Mayor) is such that there continues to be a need for Councillors to act on the Mayor’s behalf on a regular basis. Council recognized this need by establishing the role of Duty Councillor on call. Currently, Councillors are not compensated when acting in this role. The Committee concluded that Councillors should be compensated for the additional workload required of the Duty Councillor. The Committee is also of the view that, in principle, Councillors ought not to have their salaries reduced mid-term as a result of the appointment of one full-time Deputy Mayor. For these reasons, the Committee recommends that those Councillors who are not the Deputy Mayor receive a supplement to their base salary equal to one-ninth of the annual Deputy Mayor’s supplement.

Mayor

The Committee reviewed the base compensation for the Mayor and the market data provided with respect to Mayors in other jurisdictions. As in the case of the Councillor salary, many elements were not directly comparable between jurisdictions. Upon consideration, we concluded that the current method of determining the Mayor’s salary continues to be sound.

Deputy Mayor and Acting Mayor

The Committee considered the information provided to us on the duties of the Deputy Mayor and Acting Mayor. It is our recommendation that the Deputy Mayor continue to receive a supplement equal to 22% of the Mayor’s monthly salary for performing in this role. Based on our understanding of the Acting Mayor role and the demands of it, the Committee was not persuaded that it ought to attract its own salary supplement. If Council is inclined to provide compensation for the Acting Mayor role, in addition to the Duty Councillor supplement a Councillor receives, we recommend that the Deputy Mayor stipend (i.e., 22% of the Mayor’s monthly salary) be divided between the two roles based on the proportions Council deems appropriate.

Annual Adjustments

The Committee supports a transparent and objective methodology for annual adjustments to the Councillor base compensation. As noted, in previous years, indexing was based on data gathered by Statistics Canada through the mandatory long-form census. With the discontinuation of mandatory census and implications for the reliability of the data, we considered alternative methodologies for annual adjustments, including reviewing methodologies used by comparable organizations. Like the 1995 Committee, we prefer a methodology that clearly separates Council increases from the results of any compensation decisions it may make for City employees and that connects the Councillor salary with the average salary of a full-time employed person in Vancouver. The Committee recommends that the City continue to use the BC average weekly earnings as the annual adjustment factor between census years. Further, should the mandatory long-form census be reinstated, we recommend that in years where a census is published, it continue to be used to adjust the base Councillor salary.

Regular Review

The Committee was concerned that the 1995 Committee did not establish a regular review of Councillor compensation to address changes like the elimination of the mandatory long-form census. We support a regular system of compensation review and recommend that compensation be reviewed on a four-year cycle commencing 2019.

b. Benefits for Council Members

Health and Welfare Benefits

Members of Council do not currently receive health and welfare benefits (e.g., extended health, dental and disability insurance) as part of their compensation package. Instead, the City provides access to its employee group benefit plans and Councillors who wish to enrol must pay the cost of the premiums. The City’s practice in this respect is constrained by Section 195(6) of the Vancouver Charter. The Charter does not allow the City to provide benefit premiums for Council members.

The Mercer market survey indicates that the City’s practice with respect to these benefits significantly lags behind the practice in comparable jurisdictions. In the absence of a legislative barrier to providing these benefits, and in keeping with the standard for elected officials, the Committee would recommend that extended health, group life and dental benefits be provided to Councillors and the Mayor in a manner that is consistent with how those benefits are provided to the City’s exempt staff. Instead, the Committee recommends that the City take the necessary steps to seek the legislative change required to permit the provision of these benefits to members of Council and the Mayor. We further recommend that should a Councillor or the Mayor become disabled during their term of office, they be eligible for up to one year of income continuity beyond their term.

Other Benefits – Transition Allowance

Departing Council members do not currently receive a transition allowance upon conclusion of their terms. The Committee observed that the absence of a transition allowance is a material difference in the benefits provided by the City when compared to the market. The Mercer market survey indicates that the majority of comparable cities offer post retirement/transition payments to council members. The Committee has recognized that the role of a Council member is equivalent to full-time employment. The role is highly public in nature and at times requires Council members to make difficult decisions; decisions which may be unpopular. As in the case of other elected officials, service to the City may result in Council members experiencing a period of transition upon the conclusion of their terms. For these reasons, the Committee recommends that Councillors and the Mayor be eligible for one week of transition allowance for every year of service on Council to a maximum of eight weeks’ salary. We further recommend that to qualify for transitional assistance, Council members must complete their term on Council. Council members who resign, forfeit their seat on Council, or die during their term would not be eligible for this assistance.
2. Staff and Resources Available to Councillors

The Committee understands that the level of administrative and other support provided to Councillors by City staff is an ongoing concern for them. We also heard that over time the staff dedicated to Councillors may have been reduced. It was clear to the Committee, that since the 1995 Review, advances in electronic communication and social media have increased the time demands on Councillors and the speed at which they are expected to respond to citizens. We are of the view that Councillors must have the staff and resources they require to adequately serve the City. Accordingly, the Committee recommends that within six months of this report, City staff assess the resources and support staff available to Councillors and increase them appropriately.

3. Park Board Commissioners

The Committee reviewed the compensation for Park Board Commissioners. We noted that compensation for Commissioners has not increased since 1991. We are of the view that the Commissioners’ compensation should keep pace with inflation. Therefore, the Committee recommends that Park Board Commissioner compensation be adjusted on a one-time only basis using the CPI – Vancouver (Stats Canada) for the period 1995 to 2015 to determine the increase.

The Committee further recommends that going forward, the compensation for Park Board Commissioners be adjusted on an annual basis using the same formula as that proposed for Councillors, and that their compensation be reviewed in four years (2019) as well.

Conclusion

The Committee believes that Council members provide a necessary and important service to the City of Vancouver and that this importance should be recognized in their compensation. We have been mindful to keep increases in total compensation to what we believe the citizens of Vancouver would find justifiable and reasonable. We are of the view that our recommendations will continue to keep Councillors both on par with the average full-time working person in the City and in line with Councillors in comparable jurisdictions.

BY-LAW NO. 7465

A By-law to Provide
Remuneration for the Members of Council

THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF VANCOUVER, in open meeting assembled, enacts as follows:

1. Members of Council shall be paid the sums calculated in accordance with this By-law as remuneration for the discharge of the duties of office.

2. In the month of September 1995, the Mayor, the Deputy Mayor and each Councillor shall receive a one time payment calculated by subtracting one-twelfth of the annual remuneration paid to them under By-laws No. 4444 and 7078 from one-twelfth of the annual equivalent of the amounts set out in paragraph 3 hereof. For the purpose of this paragraph the Councillor referred to as appointed to be Deputy Mayor shall be the person so appointed for the month of August.

3. In the year 1995 commencing on September 14th a bi-weekly payment as follows:

   (a) Mayor $3,429;
   (b) A Councillor appointed to be Deputy Mayor $1,510.69 plus a monthly increment of $1,634.49; and
   (c) A Councillor $1,510.69.

4. On January 1, 1996 and on January 1st of each following year the remuneration paid to members of Council shall be adjusted as follows:

   (a) The remuneration paid to Councillors shall be multiplied by a factor, the numerator of which is the most recent month’s figure published by Statistics Canada as being the average weekly earnings for all British Columbia, and the denominator of which is the figure published by Statistics Canada in the same month of the previous year as being the average weekly earnings for all British Columbia.

   (b) The remuneration paid to the Mayor shall be calculated by multiplying the remuneration paid to a Councillor, as calculated in sub-paragraph (a), by 2.27.

   (c) The remuneration paid to a Councillor appointed to be a Deputy Mayor, as an increment, shall be the equivalent to 22% of one-twelfth of the remuneration paid to the Mayor as calculated pursuant to sub-paragraph (b).
The remuneration, as adjusted, shall, with the exception of the increment referred to in (c), be paid bi-weekly commencing with the first full remuneration period following the adjustment. The increment referred to in (c) shall be paid monthly.

Provided that if, in the future, Statistics Canada commences publishing figures of the average weekly or monthly earnings for Vancouver, commencing in the year following the first publishing of such figures, and in all subsequent years the remuneration shall be adjusted by using those figures, rather than those being the average weekly earnings for all British Columbia.

5. In the year a census is published, the remuneration paid to the Mayor, Deputy Mayor and Councillors shall be adjusted as follows:

(a) The remuneration paid to a Councillor shall be the amount shown in the census as being the average earnings from employment for Vancouver residents who work fulltime, full year, multiplied by a factor the numerator of which is the most recent month's figure published by Statistics Canada as being the average weekly earnings for all British Columbia in the current year, and the denominator of which is the figure published by Statistics Canada as being the average weekly earnings for all British Columbia for the same month of the year immediately preceding the census year.

(b) The remuneration paid to the Mayor shall be calculated by multiplying the remuneration paid to a Councillor, as calculated in sub-paragraph (a), by 2.27.

(c) The remuneration paid to a Councillor appointed to be a Deputy Mayor, as an increment, shall be an amount equivalent to 22% of one-twelfth of the remuneration paid to the Mayor as calculated pursuant to sub-paragraph (b).

The remuneration, as adjusted, shall, with the exception of the increment referred to in (c), be paid bi-weekly commencing with the first full remuneration period following the adjustment. The increment referred to in (c) shall be paid monthly.

Provided that, if at the time of the adjustment, Statistics Canada publishes figures of the average weekly or monthly earnings for Vancouver, those figures shall be used rather than the figures published as being the average weekly earnings for all British Columbia.
6. In the event that Statistics Canada or the Census publishes figures under different headings than those used herein or makes an alteration in the indexes in the basis or the area for which the figures are published the index or figures most closely corresponding to those referred to above, as determined by the Director of Finance shall be used in making the calculations contemplated by the By-law.

7. This By-law comes into force and takes effect on the date of its passing.

Councillors’ Compensation Review Committee
Report dated July 20, 1995

Objective: to propose a system of compensation which would be fair and reasonable, avoiding financial barriers to those running office, but also seen to be fair by taxpayers.

Key considerations and recommendations:

1. Members of Council typically work more than 40 hours per week and should be compensated on the basis of a full-time position. Compensation should be based on the average earnings of Vancouver residents, employed full-time. Annual adjustments based on an objective index.

2. The system of tax-free allowances leads to public cynicism about compensation for elected officials as it is perceived as a special benefit by members of the public. Expenses should be reimbursed up to a fixed amount (10%).

3. Using a Statistics Canada index as it was an identifiable amount developed by a neutral body and clearly separates Council from the results of any compensation decision it may make specifically for City employees.

4. It was recognized that eliminating the tax free component increased costs to the City ($48,000 in 1995) and increases tax revenue to federal and provincial governments, however, it was viewed as Vancouver taking leadership in the area of Council remuneration.

REPORT TO COUNCIL

Prepared by the
COUNCILLORS' COMPENSATION REVIEW PANEL

July 20, 1995

SUMMARY

The Council of the City of Vancouver appointed a Committee to advise it on the compensation for members of Council, and to recommend a system to maintain that compensation in an appropriate relationship with the community. We reviewed material provided to us by staff and met as a Committee on five occasions.

We reached a number of important conclusions:

- We believe that the work of Councillors and the Mayor is demanding and important, and that they should be appropriately compensated.

- While the hours of work are not regular and do include evening and weekend obligations, the information we received indicates that members of Council typically work more than forty hours per week, and, as such, should be compensated on the basis of a full time position.

- We believe that the system of tax-free allowances used throughout the political system is inappropriate, and leads to public cynicism about compensation for elected officials. We are recommending that appropriate compensation be paid without a tax free component, and that expenses be reimbursed up to a fixed amount.

- We believe that Councillor compensation should be based on the average earnings of Vancouver residents who are employed full-time, and adjusted on an annual basis according to an objective index, as reported by StatsCan.

- We believe that the present ratio between the Councillors' and the Mayor's salaries should be maintained.

We have set out in the body of this report a recommended base level for 1995 salaries for Councillors and the Mayor, and a formula for their adjustment each year.

RECOMMENDATIONS

A. That Councillors should be compensated at the same rate as an average full time employee in the Vancouver area, and that this compensation should be adjusted annually, as set out in this report, to track the changes in wages as reported by Statistics Canada ($39,278 for 1995).
In order to meet the schedule requested by Council, the Committee met on five occasions: May 23rd, June 6th, June 19th, June 26th, and July 17th 1995, to discuss research materials submitted by City staff; to request and review additional information; to discuss issues related to the level and structure of Council compensation and benefits; to formulate our recommendations, and to review the final report.

DISCUSSION

Information Review

Prior to our first meeting, City staff circulated background information to us. This included the history of Council compensation in Vancouver over the past five years; comparative information to other cities in the region and across Canada; and a general description of Councillor duties, responsibilities, and workload. We requested additional information on the number of Councillors relative to budget and population for the City and other municipalities, and more specific information on typical hours of work for a Councillor. We also asked for information on the general level of compensation in the Vancouver area. This information is summarized in Attachments 3 - 7. We were concerned to propose a system of compensation which would be fair and reasonable, avoiding financial barriers to those running for office, but also be seen to be fair by taxpayers.

The reasons for the tax free component of Council salaries, and the lack of fringe benefits provided to Councillors were considered. We learned that one third of Councillors' salaries can be deemed tax free to cover expenses, without the requirement that expenses be receipted or described, and that this practice is general across Canada for municipal, provincial and federal elected officials. We also learned that Provincial legislation does not allow the payment of benefits to Councillors beyond a modest contribution to the Municipal Superannuation Plan.

Compensation Levels

We spent considerable time discussing how compensation levels could be set rationally and we considered a range of options towards achieving this. We reviewed information on hours of work for a number of Councillors, and concluded that the job clearly called for a commitment of time at least equivalent to a normal full time job. We noted that members of Council were not well-compensated relative to other Councils in the region and across the country when the size of the City and the nature of the responsibility was considered. We noted that Councillor compensation has decreased by 5% over the last five years.
The detailed calculation is set out in Attachment 8. We have not attempted to provide comparative data on the benefit to individual Councillors, since the elimination of the tax-free component and allowance for modest expenses will affect individuals differently.

Implementation of our recommendations will increase the cost of Council compensation by approximately $75,000 in 1995, ($178,000 on a full-year basis). In a total City budget of $546 million, we believe this is an acceptable cost to provide a sensible compensation system for elected officials.

Expenses

Since we have recommended the elimination of a tax free component in Councillor's compensation, we examined the question of expenses. We acknowledge that Councillors are required to provide their own transportation and meet many expenses out of their own pockets. We were advised that so long as there was no tax free component in the Councillor's salaries, the City could pass a bylaw to enable the payment of receipted expenses. Accordingly, we have recommended that the City compensate Councillors and the Mayor for receipted expenses incurred within the City up to a maximum of 10% of base salary. The Mayor's car allowance should be maintained in addition to the 10% expense allowance. (We understand that "out of City" expenses are presently paid directly by the City, and that this will continue.)

We set this amount at a maximum of 10% to assure that expenses will be controlled, and to avoid creating a situation where the benefit to a Councillor could exceed the impact of a tax free allowance. After one year of experience, the percentage should be reviewed to determine its relative accuracy.

Benefits

We noted that the average employee in the Vancouver area would also receive at least some benefits. We were advised, however, that the Vancouver Charter did not allow the City to pay for benefits beyond participation in the Municipal Superannuation Plan, although Councillors are allowed to participate in other City benefit plans if they pay the full cost.

However, under these circumstances we could not consider benefits further.
CONCLUSIONS

We believe that Councillors and the Mayor do an important job, which should be adequately compensated. We believe the methodology set out in this report produces a sensible, defensible basis for Council compensation. We acknowledge that there will be an increased cost to the City arising out of our recommendations. Insofar as these increase the net compensation to Councillors, we believe they do so reasonably and appropriately. To the extent these increases relate to elimination of the tax free expense allowance under the present system we believe they are well justified by the clarity achieved and the consistency with how citizens in Vancouver are paid and taxed.
Council Compensation Review Panel

On February 10, 1995 Vancouver City Council approved the creation of a Panel to review the compensation for members of Council. The Panel is to review all compensation — wage, tax free allowance, and benefits — and make recommendations to Council on:

a) compensation levels for the Mayor and Councillors for 1995

b) a system for ongoing adjustment of Council compensation.

The Panel report should be available not later than the end of June, after not more than four Panel Meetings.

Panel Membership

The Panel is to consist of 8 members, representing a broad cross section of corporate and community interests.

Information and Staff Support to be Provided

City of Vancouver staff will carry out research and provide information as required by the Panel. Initial information for the Panel will include available material from:

a) the Union of BC Municipalities;

b) the Federation of Canadian Municipalities;

c) the Greater Vancouver Regional District;

d) the Public Sector Employer's Council;

e) other municipalities of similar size;

f) Crown Corporations; and

g) questionnaires from and interviews with Councillors, as appropriate.

Proposed Work Program

We propose that the Panel meet every two weeks over two months. The Panel will set its own agenda as it sees fit; the following possible schedule is offered to assist Panel members in arriving at its schedule and agenda.
GENERAL INFORMATION

- Average Weekly Earnings as at February 1995 for persons employed in both Union and Non-Union positions in British Columbia is: $587.56/week, $30,553.12/year gross salary, not including benefits.

- SUGGESTIONS OF POSSIBLE INDICES FOR FUTURE ADJUSTMENTS

City of Winnipeg

Adjusted by a % on January 1st each year. % is lesser of 7% or annual % change in the industrial composite of average weekly wages and salaries for Statistics Canada.

City of Ottawa

Adjusted annually according to Statistics Canada index for the Ottawa-Hull area.

City of Regina

Mayors' salary to be 90% of MLA's; Alderman's salary go be 30% of Mayor's salary.

- SUPERANNUATION FOR MEMBERS OF COUNCIL

Members of council may choose to participate in the Municipal Superannuation Plan.

The Plan provides for a pension after at least ten years of contributions, at age 60, based on 2% X numbers of years of contribution X average income over best 5 years.

A Councillor must elect to contribute prior to the expiration of 10 accumulated years of service.

A Councillor may elect to make contributions in respect of past service.

The contribution rate is 6% on earnings up to $34,900 and 7.5% on earnings above that figure. The City contributes 150% of what the Councillor contributes.

Provincial Pension Benefits Standards legislation now allows for a pension after at least five years of contribution and it is anticipated that this will be furthered reduced to two years after 1998.

At present the Superannuation By-Law which provides Members of Council with access to the Municipal Pension Plan does not comply with the Provincial Benefits Standards Act. In order to bring the By-Law into compliance with the Provincial Legislation, an amendment to the Vancouver Charter must be made.

DETAILED METHODOLOGY OF ANNUAL SALARY CALCULATION

The following contains the details of the calculation of the salaries recommended in this report, as well as all information required to adjust salaries annually. The aim of this methodology is to approximate as closely as possible the average earnings from employment of all Vancouver residents.

STEP 1: Establish average earnings from employment for Vancouver residents who work full-time/full-year, across all industries

This information is not collected annually, so average earnings from the last census are used. Note that this figure is for all earnings generated from full-time/full-year employment, for all industries; this includes earnings derived from unionized and non-unionized labour, public and private sector work, and self-employment earnings.

Weighted average of 1990 earnings for males and females = $33,881

Source:
StatsCan Catalogue no. 95-385 Profiles of Census Divisions & Subdivisions in British Columbia — Part B
Table 1. "Selected Characteristics for Census Divisions and Subdivisions, 1991 Census — 20% Sample"
*Detail: Employment income by sex and work activity: calculate weighted average for males and females, "Average employment income, worked full-time, full-year"

STEP 2: Inflate this 1990 figure to an earnings figure applicable to 1995

It was decided that the annual percent increase of average earnings from employment is a better indicator of growth than is percent increase in the consumer price index. At the time of this report, this information is available only for the entire province. Although average earnings may be different for Vancouver versus all of British Columbia, the trends in growth are likely comparable.

If StatsCan makes available average earnings figures for Vancouver, this should be used as the index, rather than the provincial average.

City of Vancouver
Methodology
Data Collection Process

- General information on the comparators’ Council compensation is disclosed on their websites. To obtain information on the full range of elements that the City was interested in, additional data collection was necessary.

- To collect the additional data, Mercer prepared a data collection template. The publicly-available information was populated into the template and sent to each comparator for verification along with fields to capture any additional information that the City was interested in.

- Eleven of the 13 organizations verified the completed templates and provided the additional information that was requested.
  - Information for the City of Kelowna and the Province of BC is based solely on the publicly-available information.
Methodology
Data Elements and Analysis

• The review included compensation provided to City Council Members and the Mayor for the following elements:
  – Compensation Arrangements – base salary, additional salaries for functional roles, and tax-free allowances.
  – Perquisites – prevalence and details regarding the amounts payable.
  – Health and Welfare Benefits – eligibility and plan design details of health and benefits programs.
  – Other Benefits and Allowances – eligibility and amounts paid for other allowances.
  – Retirement Plan – eligibility and plan type, benefit formula and indexing, and employee contributions.
  – Retirement Allowance / Transition Payments – amounts paid following the end of employment.

• In addition, information on key scope metrics including most recently reported municipal population, 2015 annual operating budget, 2015 annual capital budget, and most recently reported number of permanent full-time employees was also collected.

Benefits, Allowances, and Retirement Plans

- Detailed results from the market analysis for health and welfare benefits, other benefits / allowances, and retirement plans are provided on the slides that follow.

- Areas where the City’s current practices differ from the market practices are as follows:
  - Providing basic life benefits is consistent with the market. Most organizations pay 100% of the premium for these benefits while the City does not.
  - The majority of the organizations offer dependent/spousal life benefits and require the Councillors to pay 100% of the premium. The City does not offer this benefit.
  - Offering extended health and dental benefits is consistent with the market. Almost all organizations pay some portion of the premiums (ranging from 65% up to 100%) while the City does not.
  - The Mayor’s vehicle allowance of $7,200 lags the market median allowance of $9,400. Most organizations offer a vehicle allowance to Councillors whereas the City does not.
  - Most municipalities provide a retirement allowance or transition payments. While this a majority practice, this can be a sensitive policy from a stakeholder perspective, based on our experience.

- All other items in these areas are generally consistent with market practices.

1. Transportation Priorities

Council agreed to vary the order of the agenda and place this item at the end of the agenda.

COMMUNICATIONS OR PETITIONS

1. Labour Relations Bureau of the GVRD

In a memorandum dated January 14, 1991, Mayor Campbell advised that given his newly acquired responsibilities as Chairman of the Greater Vancouver Regional District, he would recommend that Alderman Puil be appointed as the City's representative on the Greater Vancouver Regional District Labour Relations Bureau.

MOVED by Ald. Bellamy,
THAT the foregoing recommendation of the Mayor be approved.

- CARRIED

(Aldermen Davies, Eriksen, Ränkin, Wilson and Yorke opposed)

2. Interim Remuneration Package
   for Park Commissioners

The Mayor, in a memorandum dated January 15, 1991, noted the Park Board Commissioners have been included in the Aldermanic salary and benefits review, and recommended the Commissioners receive an interim salary of $1,000 per month pending the completion of the review.

In a letter dated January 15, 1991, the General Manager, Parks & Recreation, advised that the Park Board, at its meeting on January 14, 1991, approved the following motion:

THAT City Council consider an interim adjustment to the stipends of Park Commissioners effective January 1, 1991 until such time as the recommendations of the remuneration study are officially dealt with by Council, and also that those recommendations when they are dealt with by Council be retroactive to January 1, 1991.

MOVED by Ald. Eriksen,

COMMUNICATIONS AND PETITIONS

1. Port Planning Initiatives

In a letter dated July 24, 1992, Ms. Marion Olivieri, Hastings Community Association, requested that the Policy Report dated July 16, 1992 entitled "Vancouver Port Planning Initiatives" which is on the Planning and Environment Committee Agenda for July 30, 1992 be deferred. The Association is very interested in Port planning and its effect on the Hastings area. However, it would be very difficult for any Board member to attend the meeting on July 30.

In a note from the Director of Planning, Council was advised the Vancouver Port Corporation is anxious to resolve the Ballantyne Pier issue, and it would be the intent of City staff to work with the Port to establish a City position on this project.

MOVED by Cllr. Puit,
THAT recommendation D as contained in the Policy Report dated July 16, 1992, be considered by the Planning and Environment Committee at its meeting on July 30, 1992, and the balance of the recommendations as contained in that report be deferred to a meeting in September.

- CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY

2. Annual Remuneration – Park Board Commissioners

Mayor Campbell, in a memorandum dated July 27, 1992, reviewed the Park Board request to establish a differential rate for the Chairperson of the Park Board. The minor Charter Amendment required to permit the differential rate has now been approved, and therefore, the Mayor recommended:

THAT Council approve a differential rate be established for the Chairperson of the Board of Parks and Recreation of 25%.

AND FURTHER THAT the Chairperson of the Park Board be remunerated $15,000 for 1992 and that any necessary monthly adjustments be made.

MOVED by Cllr. Davies,
THAT the foregoing recommendation of the Mayor be approved.

- CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY
MEMO TO: Members of Council
FROM: Mayor Gordon Campbell

On February 3rd, 1992, the Park Board resolved to rectify the lack of a differential rate for the Chairperson of the Park Board.

The resolution was passed unanimously by the Board. When the law was prepared for Council a technical difficulty was covered which could only be rectified with a minor Charter Amendment.

That Charter Amendment has now been approved. In keeping with the Park Board's earlier request and with Council's evident intent, I RECOMMEND

THAT Council approve a differential rate be established for the Chairperson of the Board of Parks and Recreation of 25%;

AND FURTHER THAT the Chairperson of the Park Board be remunerated $15,000 for 1992 and that any necessary monthly adjustments be made.

SUBJECT: Park Board Commissioners Expense By-Law

RECOMMENDATION

THAT the Board request Council approval of Park Board Commissioners Expenses By-Law as attached.

COUNCIL POLICY

Past policy has been to fund certain expenses directly related to the discharge of duties of Board Commissioners, over and above the one third tax free expense allowance provided in the Board renumeration by-law.

BACKGROUND

In 1993, the Provincial Government approved a number of amendments to the Vancouver Charter relating to council expenses and requiring that certain expenses be approved by by-law. When these changes were made the Province inadvertently omitted the inclusion of Park Board Commissioners.

The City Law Department subsequently requested a further change to the charter to provide for Park Commissioners expenses. Bill 25 which came into effect on July 8, 1994, included an amendment to the Vancouver Charter which made the Park Board Commissioners subject to the same rules regarding remuneration and reimbursement, and the public reporting of these as presently applies to members of Council. Like Council, a by-law is required to provide for payment of expenses incurred and expenditures made in the course of their duties.

DISCUSSION

The Director of Legal Services has prepared the attached Park Board Commissioners Expenses By-Law for approval by the Board and City Council. This by-law provides for the same entitlements as those outlined in the Council Members Expenses By-Law and is authorized by Section 489B of the Charter which reads as follows:

Cont......2/
"The Council may, by by-law provide for payments to members of the Board in the same manner as permitted for members of Council and for these purposes, sections 196 and 196A apply."

CONCLUSION

Council can approve certain Park Board Commissioner expense items directly related to Board business. This report recommends approval of the requisite by-law for that purpose, but the by-law is not intended to override the existing Council policies in this area.

Park Board Commissioners Expenses By-law

Summary points:

- Council compensation:
  - designed to be full time – base in 1995 set on benchmark of average salary for full time workers in city of Vancouver
  - Increases benchmarked against increases in average salary for fulltime workers in city of Vancouver (Stats Canada data)
    - Census based adjustment rises at a higher rate then average salary of BC workers which is used as interim adjustment between Census years – this suggests that salaries in city of Vancouver are rising faster than those across rest of province
    - base rate is aligned reasonably with BC munis but behind metropolitan cities in Ontario and Alberta – however latter have significantly broader scope of responsibilities
    - Impact of tax free element of compensation is material – increases based on tax bracket of individual councillor (equivalent to another month or 2 of deputy mayor’s salary)
    - Impact of changes to Deputy Mayor’s stipend will reduce the competitiveness of the salary since only one councillor will receive; however workload will be reduced for others
    - Impact of additional Metro income is wide-ranging, however, this is also a direct reflection of workload and responsibility and therefore likely a fair variability amongst councillors
  - Base rate Increases over years have kept pace with City collective agreement increases
  - At this time – compensation is still benchmarked against average salary for full time workers with mayor’s salary being determined by a multiplier of that benchmark
  - Workload in council meetings, public hearings have decreased in last decade;
    - more advisory committees than before
    - Population being represented has grown
    - Impact of social media?? (see council support slide)

• Council Benefits:
  – Significantly lag behind staff benefits
  – Also lag behind other peer municipalities (Mercer Report)
  – Value of difference with staff and other peer munis is being worked on – This is an area where easy justification to address compensation fairness for elected officials
Council Expenses:

• COV behind on expenses for Councillors:
  – Transportation expense particularly
  – This will be sensitive given focus on sustainable transportation – but could be taken as cash versus km charge

• Mayor’s expenses seem benchmarked and appropriate
Council support:

- Benchmarking support for elected officials is unreliable and difficult
- Support in Mayor’s office has grown significantly
  - Budget increased by 42% over last 6 years – 5 staff in 2015
- Disproportionate impact on councillors – depends on political affiliation
- Councillors direct support stable – (we are checking historical data)
- More work being done on whether correspondence or research needs are more demanding
  - Population being served has changed since 1995 but so has other municipalities (since 2004 pop COV growth 9%, Burnaby 13%, Surrey 30%, Richmond 14%, Metro 15%)
  - Social media has had an impact on demands
  - All governments are seeing same dynamics so all is relative and not unique to Vancouver

Compensation:

- No real peers
  - Local comparator – VSB (VSB budget ($580M), risks and scope are significantly more extensive) and Metro Board member compensation
- No clear criteria for setting base rate (versus situation for Councillors)
- Definitely part time role
- Differential set for Chair versus other commissioners
- Compensation hasn’t increased since 1995
  - Options: apply Council rate increase; apply increase provided to VSB Trustees or Metro Directors over last 20 years – data being collected
Benefits:
• Part time role – likely not appropriate

Expenses:
• Should align with comparators

Support:
• Likely not appropriate to add support; relatively speaking for budget, Park Board has significant support at General Manager level compared to other Departments in the City

No stipend currently paid to Clr. Louie as Acting Mayor

No stipend currently paid to other Councillors for monthly “duty Councillor” assignments
  – As noted last time this is a material reduction in their annual income
Deputy Mayor and Acting Mayor Roles

- Delineated by the Vancouver Charter
- Acting Mayor:
  - Has the full authority to act and sign for the Mayor in his/her absence
- Deputy Mayor:
  - A position which has duties formally assigned by Mayor and Council; authority varies according to this assignment and may not be as extensive as acting Mayor authority
  - Currently this formal process has not been undertaken
- Previous construct of monthly assignment was a blend of both Acting Mayor and Deputy Mayor responsibilities

Q. In relation to those municipalities that continue to pay 1/3 of Councillor salaries as tax-exempt, we have been asked to estimate the value of that exemption. While it would obviously need to reflect a set of assumptions (e.g. using CoV salary, assuming no other income, etc.), would it be possible to come up with some estimate in that regard?

A. A way to look at the value of a tax fee allowance would be to determine how much you would pay equivalent in order to get the same net amount after taxes.

And that will depend on the tax bracket of the person. Marginal tax rates (combined) range from 20% to 45.8% (see details below) but effective tax rates are lower at 20-32%.

Based on an average salary say $80,000 the effective rate would around 25% - therefore a $10,000 tax free allowance it would be equivalent to a gross of $13,300 ($10,000/.75)

- Federal rates:
  - 15% on the first $44,701 of taxable income, +
  - 22% on the next $44,700 of taxable income (on the portion of taxable income over $44,701 up to $89,401), +
  - 26% on the next $49,185 of taxable income (on the portion of taxable income over $89,401 up to $138,586), +
  - 29% of taxable income over $138,586.
- Provincial rates:
  - 5.06% on the first $37,869 of taxable income, +
  - 7.7% on the next $37,871, +
  - 10.5% on the next $11,218, +
  - 12.29% on the next $18,634, +
  - 14.7% on the next $45,458, +
  - 16.8% on the amount over $151,050
