TO: Vancouver City Council
FROM: Director of Finance
SUBJECT: 2021 Exempt Seniors Housing

RECOMMENDATION

- A. THAT Council approve, in principle, the by-law for 2021 Exempt Seniors Housing attached as Appendix A.
- B. That Council instruct the Director of Legal Services to bring forward for enactment a by-law generally in accordance with Appendix A.

REPORT SUMMARY

This report discusses the annual by-law that grants a permissive tax exemption to certain seniors' housing projects, and recommends that Council enacts the by-law attached to this report.

COUNCIL AUTHORITY/PREVIOUS DECISIONS

In 1994, Council enacted the first permissive exemption by-law for 39 seniors housing facilities that had been in existence prior to 1974. Council also adopted a policy that no Seniors Housing project constructed after March 31, 1974 should be approved for permissive exemptions, and that future applicants requesting permissive tax exemptions should be denied.

On April 28, 2020 council received the 2019 Property Tax Exemptions for information in accordance with section 219(2)(c) of the Vancouver Charter. This by-law is in accordance with the objectives and policies set out in that.

CITY MANAGER'S/GENERAL MANAGER'S COMMENTS

The City Manager recommends approval of the foregoing.

REPORT

Background/Context

The Vancouver Charter includes a variety of mandatory or statutory tax exemptions which are primarily administered by BC Assessment. City Council is also authorized to provide discretionary or permissive exemptions that meet certain criteria, but Council has not approved any new permissive exemptions in several decades.

Vancouver differs from other BC municipalities as it is primarily governed by the Vancouver Charter, and not the Community Charter. The City's property tax exemptions are set out in sections 396 to 396F of the Vancouver Charter. The Vancouver Charter includes more automatic or statutory exemptions than the Community Charter. Because of this, other municipalities in BC are more reliant upon permissive exemptions than Vancouver.

Prior to 1974, seniors housing and community care facilities in Vancouver were granted a statutory exemption from taxes. At the time, there were 39 seniors housing facilities that met the exemption criteria. The Province then amended the Vancouver Charter, transferring the exemption decision for any new seniors housing to Council. However, the pre-existing 39 facilities were protected from the change in the Vancouver Charter, and continued to be exempt from taxes.

The Province later amended the Vancouver Charter to clarify that in order for the properties to be exempt from taxation, Council had to enact a by-law granting that exemption.

In 1994, Council enacted the first permissive exemption by-law for the 39 seniors housing facilities that had been in existence and had been protected from taxation prior to 1974. A similar by-law has been enacted every year, although the number of properties exempt from taxation has fallen to 38. Council also adopted a policy that no Seniors Housing project constructed after March 31, 1974 should be approved for permissive exemptions, and that future applicants requesting permissive tax exemptions should be denied. Council instructed staff to communicate this policy to all future applicants.

In 2010 the Province further amended the Vancouver Charter by enacting section 396F, which grants Council broad discretionary power to enact by-laws to exempt not-for-profit properties from taxation for up to 10 years. Section 396F is similar to the permissive exemption powers granted to other BC municipalities under the Community Charter.

In September 2011, City of Vancouver staff reported to Council that the City's extensive grant programs are a more effective, flexible, transparent and accountable process for disbursing public funds than a permissive tax exemption program. According to the 2011 Property Tax Exemptions Report, "Council has since adopted the policy that the City will continue to support not-for-profit organizations through the existing range of statutory property tax exemptions available under Section 396(1) and the City's extensive grant programs, but will not consider the use of permissive property tax exemptions.” So while the Vancouver Charter includes provisions for permissive exemptions, Council has instead chosen to rely on existing statutory exemptions and grant programs. The City continues to receive exemption requests for consideration each year, and Council relies on staff to respond by citing the existing Council policy.

Implications/Related Issues/Risk

Financial

The 2021 financial impact of this by-law for exemption of seniors housing properties built before 1974 is expected to be $1,239,000 in foregone General Purpose tax levy which represents approximately 0.14% of the overall levy.

CONCLUSION

Staff recommend that the draft by-law be enacted.
