Be able to rent, never mind afford a home, or to raise a family in this city. Me and every one of my coworkers are making plans to leave after seeing what you detached from reality rich people think of as affordable housing. Good luck getting anything built in the future once all your talent leaves. Or maybe we will stick around and become disgruntled becoming increasingly unhappy and unproductive, we might be able to hang on and live in Vancouver longer if we get good at shoplifting and stealing gasoline maybe' Maybe commit sabotage at work to maximize our hours' Maybe my girlfriend can sell her used garments to creeps to just have a chance to get... savings for a flat tire. Hilarious to think of earning savings and getting a mortgage, that just isn't happening for my generation. It's been a while since I met anyone that had any hope. Why should we care' We are no longer building a future for ourselves.	Kyle Davidson		s. 22(1) Personal and Confidential	I do not live in Vancouver	No web attachments.
