06/23/2022	11:19	PH4 - 3. CD-1 Rezoning: 2086-2098 West 7th Avenue, and 2091 West 8th Avenue	Support	As an economist working on affordable housing issues, I strongly support this much-needed project. Rising home prices and rents are a massive market failure, and public investments like this one to give people a place to live while providing them with the supports they need is good public policy. I am also making my submission as a nearby resident. All neighbourhoods need to share in the responsibility of housing people in need. A housing project in close proximity to a new subway station and other services and amenities just makes sense. I welcome these new residents to my neighbourhood, and I believe that stable and affordable housing can help them have lives of dignity and heal their trauma. Unfortunately I will be out of town and not able to speak directly to the proposal. Vancouver needs more housing aimed at people who need it, rather than investors looking for secondary properties. Please support this proposal!	Marc Lee		Fairview	No web attachments.

I believe it will help a great deal in taking action within our homeles community. CD-1 Rezoning: 2086-2098 West 7th Avenue, and 2091 West 8th Avenue	Support	To whom it may concern, I am in support of the proposed Supportive Housing Project on Arbutus & 8th. Through countless examples of other similar housing projects, the impact that it brings to the area is undoubtedly positive. It brings a more fulsome community representation and allows individuals with mental illness to participate fully in the community. 06/23/2022	15:12	PH4 - 3. CD-1 Rezoning: 2086-2098 West 7th Avenue, and 2091 West 8th Avenue	Support	Dear Mayor and Council, I am writing in support of the affordable housing project at 8th and Arbutus. Vancouver's affordability crisis stems from a drastic shortage of housing. Those in need of supportive housing have been forced into the cold, quite literally, because we don't have enough spaces. This project has generated a significant amount of backlash because it is on Vancouver's west side in an area with some of Vancouver's loudest anti-housing advocates. By rejecting this proposal you are sending a message to everyone that the west side of Vancouver is not a neighbourhood but an exclusive enclave for anyone lucky enough to have got in a long time ago or has the money to afford its very high prices and rents. This building will provide respite and housing for Vancouverites in need and the only thing standing in its way is your votes. Please be a voice for an inclusive Vancouver by voting in favour of this proposal. When I tuned into the council hearing last week on the non-profit homes on Knight and King Edward last week I was appalled to hear such vitriol and disdain aimed at the stereotypes of future residents. The opposition to this building is the same but hidden under the veil of shadows, height, character, etc. We need these homes so please do the right thing and approve it. Thanks	Bobo Eyrich		Mount Pleasant	No web attachments.
06/23/2022	15:18	PH4 - 3. CD-1 Rezoning: 2086-2098 West 7th Avenue, and 2091 West 8th Avenue	Support	Dear Council, After reading Tamara Loyer's account of just how deeply supportive housing improved her lives and the lives of many others, allowing her to transition and become financially independent and housing-secure, I strongly request that you support this desperately-needed project. We need more options for supportive housing outside of the DTES. It saves lives and improves our city, both by getting people off of the streets and by helping citizens' health improve and live independently and contribute to their community. This is a no-brainer, please support! Melissa Orobko Renfrew-Collingwood Resident	Melissa Orobko		Renfrew-Collingwood	No web attachments.
06/23/2022	16:03	PH4 - 3. CD-1 Rezoning: 2086-2098 West 7th Avenue, and 2091 West 8th Avenue	Support	I would like to express how important it is for the City of Vancouver to provide more supportive affordable housing options. This proposal will help alleviate just a small amount of the gigantic need. My uncle has schizophrenia and is unable to house himself and could use supportive housing like this, please build this one and many more. It is essential for our community to support those that are the most vulnerable is a respectful and caring manor that starts with a home.	Ryan Nicol		Kitsilano	No web attachments.

06/23/2022	16:53	PH4 - 3. CD-1 Rezoning: 2086-2098 West 7th Avenue, and 2091 West 8th Avenue	Support	This looks like a fantastic project. I used to live in the neighbourhood, and this is a great location, made all the more so by the coming SkyTrain extension. Future residents of the project will add to the diversity of a neighbourhood rich with amenities and services. Its location along the Greenway is also a huge plus. If anything, this building should be taller, with more supportive housing (badly needed all across the underserved West Side of Vancouver). As a housing researcher at UBC, I can also say that the research is unequivocal: supporting and funding more projects like this is a big part of how we collectively end homelessness. 06/23/2022	18:30	PH4 - 3. CD-1 Rezoning: 2086-2098 West 7th Avenue, and 2091 West 8th Avenue	Support	We need more affordable housing in this city, for people of all income levels. Please build more affordable housing (20% below market is NOT affordable for the people who need a reduction in rent). Providing safe and affordable housing to EVERYONE who needs a place to live will save taxpayers money in the long run. We need more rental housing that is affordable to people working minimum wage, for people on income assistance and PWD benefits, for every single person in Vancouver... plus all of the people who keep moving here every day. Every resident of Vancouver needs be housed safely and affordably. This project barely scratches the surface of what's needed. More of this, please. Thank you. 06/23/2022	19:23	PH4 - 3. I am in full support of this project and understand the immediate and essential need to provide this kind of housing in our neighbourhood, and to our neighbours. 06/23/2022	21:05	PH4 - 3. CD-1 Rezoning: 2086-2098 West 7th Avenue, and 2091 West 8th Avenue	Support	The city is in desperate need of this kind of housing. Homelessness is a city wide problem that requires a city wide response. I have lived in the neighborhood since 2010 with my family and I firmly support this project. I want my children to grow in a city that takes care of its vulnerable. Research shows that this model will save lives. Many supportive housing projects are near schools with no incidents. The height is in line with the Broadway Plan. Please approve and do the right thing.	Lindsey Murphy		Kitsilano	No web attachments.
06/23/2022	22:10	PH4 - 3. CD-1 Rezoning: 2086-2098 West 7th Avenue, and 2091 West 8th Avenue	Support	I strongly support the rezoning application for the address in the title. Vancouver is in a housing crisis. The city had committed to building equity and opportunity for residents who need it the most - and this looks like approving housing that offers supports to individuals. Supportive housing belongs in every neighborhood of the city. There is plenty of research citing that housing is a key part of healthcare, and that people cannot achieve health until they have a roof over their head. Homelessness leads to a myriad of physical and mental health conditions and causes people to access healthcare at higher proportions than the rest of the population. Not providing housing for our residents places undue stress on an already over-taxed healthcare system as well. I live in Kitsilano and strongly support this project. Dear City Council, I am an s22(1) Personal and Confidential staff in Kitsilano. I'm also a longtime renter in Kits. Please consider the following when making your decision on the Arbutus project! Need for more social housing in general ' If the city isn't building social housing on the land that it owns, where no existing residents would be displaced, where will it build' Need for social & supportive housing in all neighbourhoods ' There's a 30 year gap in life expectancy between different neighbourhoods in Vancouver, and we need social and affordable housing to be spread out throughout the city. Location ' It makes sense to have social housing beside a new skytrain station. This is also aligned with the city's climate goals. ' Residents at the building can enjoy access to transit, arbutus greenway, etc. All Housing is beside Parks & Schools! ' The majority of supportive housing in BC is within 500 metres of a school with few issues. This is because our neighbourhoods are designed around schools! ' The way we've designed our cities means that all new social housing can only be built near parks and schools - otherwise, buildings would be in industrial areas, which is inhumane. Unhoused Neighbours in Kitsilano ' A large number of seniors are experiencing or at-risk of homelessness in Kitsilano with nowhere to go ' Members of the LGBTQ2S+ community are disproportionately at-risk of homelessness. Social housing aligns with the City's goals around equity. ' Many people are just a few paycheques or unexpected challenges away from housing insecurity, especially during a housing crisis. Building Design ' This isn't "warehousing people" - each unit is a studio apartment with its own bathroom. Amenities will also include kitchens and community meals, dining areas, programming spaces. These will be nice homes! ' Lots of people around Vancouver live in studio apartments City Commitments ' Approving this building is directly in line with the election commitments councilors made to solving the affordable housing crisis ' It also aligns with policies that Council has passed. Including: City of Reconciliation and Affordable Housing Policy. ' The City's Affordable Housing Policy explicitly talks about: "maintaining and expanding housing opportunities for low and moderate income households; encouraging the distribution of housing equally among residential neighbourhoods". Sincerely, Noel Farrand	Noel Farrand		Kitsilano	Appendix A

The need is critical and long-standing. Ready access to upgraded public transit will be extremely valuable to this limited income population. The more openly and fully that we support and embrace under-served populations, in this case people facing chronic mental health challenges, the more we release those individuals to retain, regain, develop, and release their gifts to the benefit of our community and our city. 06/24/2022	09:26	PH4 - 3. CD-1 Rezoning: 2086-2098 West 7th Avenue, and 2091 West 8th Avenue	Support	Dear Vancouver City Council, I am writing to express my support for the proposed BC Housing Supportive Housing development that would be located at West 8th Avenue and Arbutus Street. As you are likely aware, more than 2,000 people across our city are currently experiencing homelessness. The proposed project would add critical supportive and affordable housing stock, adding approximately 140 new units to the community. The City of Vancouver has a mandate to reduce the affordability gap, as articulated through the 'Housing Vancouver' policy. This includes supporting non-profit and non-market affordable housing options. The proposals for 2086 and 2098 West 7th Avenue and 2091 West 8th Avenue help the city meet this commitment. There are many parents, residents, property owners, businesses and workers in the community who are excited about this project. There are already many individuals experiencing homelessness in Kitsilano who need immediate access to safe housing. Finally, the proposed building height and scale is aligned with nearby units in the Fairview/Arbutus area. These neighbourhoods still very much enjoy a human-scale environment. The proposed location would add critical affordable housing stock without displacing any existing residents. Its proximity to the future Broadway Subway Extension and the Arbutus Greenway would provide its residents with direct transportation options. I urge you to approve this project's application for rezoning when it comes across your desk. Sincerely, Elizabeth Horner	Elizabeth Horner		Grandview-Woodland	No web attachments.

It is enshrined in international human rights law and in our domestic law (the National Housing Strategy Act). Fulfilling the right to housing is about more than four walls and a roof - the housing must be ADEQUATE. Part of adequacy is location - that individuals and families are able to secure housing in a location that suits them and that is accessible. To me, this is the crux of the debate around this rezoning application, and the key argument for why it should be approved.	Ruby Bissett		Grandview-Woodland	No web attachments.

The proposed project would add critical supportive and affordable housing stock, adding approximately 140 new units to the community. The City of Vancouver has a mandate to reduce the affordability gap, as articulated through the 'Housing Vancouver' policy. This includes supporting non-profit and non-market affordable housing options. The proposals for 2086 and 2098 West 7th Avenue and 2091 West 8th Avenue help the city meet this commitment. There are many parents, residents, property owners, businesses and workers in the community who are excited about this project. There are already many individuals experiencing homelessness in Kitsilano who need immediate access to safe housing. Finally, the proposed building height and scale is aligned with nearby units in the Fairview/Arbutus area. These neighbourhoods still very much enjoy a human-scale environment. The proposed location would add critical affordable housing stock without displacing any existing residents. Its proximity to the future Broadway Subway Extension and the Arbutus Greenway would provide its residents with direct transportation options. I want to welcome new members into this community. Currently, i work with folks living along the Granville strip but I have worked with people challenged by housing since 1999. I have seen first hand the profound impact that housing has on people's physical and mental health. Safe housing is imperative. Secondly, i have seen many projects like this be protested and go through only to fade into the background once built- because they do. Once people are settled in safe housing, especially supported safe housing, they do much better and the housing units just look like any other housing in a neighbourhood. Two cases in point, I lived in Kits when the MPA bldg was being proposed for Fir just north of W. Broadway. I came out to support it. I have driven past a few times in more recent years and unless I google the address i can't even tell which bldg it is. Secondly, I now live s22(1) Personal and Confidential . I recall there was much protest about that building, even someone suggesting that the residents should have to wear orange so they are identified as people who used to use substances. I walk or drive past it several times a week, and once again, it is indistinguishable from any of the rental and strata condos in the neighbourhood. There is nothing to worry about with supported housing. The people who live in them are our friends, family members and neighbours. They have as much right to housing in a safe neighbourhood as anyone does, and once safely housed, they live in the community just like everyone else. Although I don't live near this proposed project, i have lived in Vancouver for enough years and seen enough projects go through, that I feel like I can comment on the potential impact on the neighbourhood. The only impact will be positive b/c people will have good housing options. Period. There is no negative. Throughout the development of this proposal, BC Housing, CMHC and partners have listened to the community by: 1) reducing the number of units 2) changing the mix of units to provide a broader cross-section of folks with housing (now 50% shelter - 50% BC Housing H L) Recognizing the proponent's willingness to adapt to community input, as well as the major benefits provided by a Housing First strategy across Vancouver and not just in certain areas, council must support this project. Yes, the project is in the proximity of a school, but it is also in proximity to a community hub, rapid transit, and other services which the folks housed at this location will need. Furthermore, access to the building will be on the far-side from the school, meaning interactions ' likely harmless anyways ' will be minimized. In Vancouver, 2,000 people are experiencing homelessness right now. While the size of the development ' 129 units ' is not enough, it is progress, and will also provide sufficient scale to efficiently provide services to residents such as medical care, skills training, and assistance with access to other government services. Housing is a right, and the city has an obligation to approve projects that provide shelter, particularly for folks in need. As another commenter mentioned, "this is a bed, a warm meal, a predictable shower every day, an opportunity for recovery and maybe most importantly, a rare opportunity for dignity for those who might be struggling to find some." I deeply hope this comment provides council the necessary reflection on the need for this development and that you will approve the project. As Tamara Loyer explains, this housing will prevent homelessness and save lives. A 13-storey tower is small compared to what was just approved for this area in the Broadway Plan. Being close to Skytrain will allow residents to easily access services, employment and family & friends. A study of supportive housing sites in BC showed that they generally do not negatively affect nearby property values. We should not be having a public hearing to decide whether people facing homelessness will be allowed to have housing. Every neighbourhood needs more deeply affordable housing. People living anywhere can become homeless and residents may often have connections to the neighbourhood. It would be irresponsible to turn down this funding from the provincial government. Homeless people, regardless of race, creed, ethnicity, sexually, gender identity, religious belief or lack thereof, age, addiction or mental health issues should not be the foundation, the presupposition, to deny a human being their birthright, as they are members of our collective community, having the same basic human rights we all enjoy. In this time, I've worked in the area and have a child who goes to school nearby and I can't say how important it is to have this space. The fear mongers over drug use and the assumption of crime are not based on facts and are based on wanting to keep a neighbourhood to some unrealistic and, quite frankly, hateful. We are in a CRISIS of housing, toxic drug supply. We allow a public display of hate to be paraded out in front of everyone like animals to be voted on. It's shameful and a significant waste of taxpayer money. Every person deserves a home they feel safe. Everyone. It's shouldn't have to be quantified by your postal code, spending $800/month for a private school that specifically states it accepts people based on religious views, or by a group of parents who spent thousands on a hateful marketing campaign. Am I worried about crime and drug use? Yes. However, I'm more worried about the vulnerable who can't spend thousands on glossy postcards. Those who can't spend $3000 on a one bedroom apartment. Those who can't overcome an addiction because of privilege. Being close to a skytrain, community and resources will allow people to access services and feel welcome. I will be there on day one to volunteer and support in any way I can. That's what a community is. Not a bunch of people advocating hate and exclusion. It frustrates me that we still have public hearings to decide whether people experiencing homelessness or housing insecurity are granted housing, but that is unfortunately the current reality. The need for housing in Vancouver, particularly at below-market and shelter rates, has never been more acute. With the cost of land in Vancouver, it is rare that there is both public land and funding available, and I strongly encourage council to take advantage of this opportunity to provide 129 people with homes. It was encouraging to see Council approve the rezoning at King Edward and Knight for supportive housing, and I hope the same occurs with this proposal. Supportive housing saves lives, and while it is not perfect, this reason alone is why we should not with any good conscience turn this proposal down.	Erin LaRocque		Kitsilano	No web attachments.

Supportive housing in Vancouver is in short supply and is necessary. It provides residents with the stability to address any of their other concerns. The location in an affluent area of the city is particularly important. This USC study (https://socialinnovation.usc.edu/wp-content/uploads/2018/02/Hsu-Location-2016.pdf) shows that the area that supportive housing is in is a very important factor in how the residents perceive their safety. Having supportive housing in Kitsilano removes the residents from areas where there are a greater concentration of drugs and safety issues. Moreover, having supportive housing on West 7th will help in reducing the concentration of poorer people in other areas of Vancouver. Additionally, the location of the housing project next to the future Arbutus Skytrain station allows residents to be close to rapid transit. Lastly, where there is a choice between housing people or not, it would be immoral to deny people housing because of the unjustified fears of certain residents. The proximity to rapid transit, an AAA bike network, a community centre, and a community with some semblance of walkability make this a great location. It seems like a valuable addition to this community, and vice-versa. It is deeply inequitable to have been forced to push previous projects like this into poorer areas and I welcome this change. I say that as part of a household that earns more than the average household income and lives in a more affordable neighbourhood. We still have months where we struggle to save. I can't imagine what it must be like to be houseless, struggling with substance use or finding yourself at the mercy of Income Assistance or PWD, whose rates amount to legislated poverty and remain woefully inadequate for the cost of living in Vancouver. People need affordable, reliable options for safety, for housing in this city. Private renting is impossible for many people due to cost and instability. The proposed project would add critical supportive and affordable housing stock, adding approximately 140 new units to the community. The City of Vancouver has a mandate to reduce the affordability gap, as articulated through the 'Housing Vancouver' policy. This includes supporting non-profit and non-market affordable housing options. The proposals for 2086 and 2098 West 7th Avenue and 2091 West 8th Avenue help the city meet this commitment. There are many parents, residents, property owners, businesses and workers in the community who are excited about this project. There are already many individuals experiencing homelessness in Kitsilano who need immediate access to safe housing. Finally, the proposed building height and scale is aligned with nearby units in the Fairview/Arbutus area. These neighbourhoods still very much enjoy a human-scale environment. The proposed location would add critical affordable housing stock without displacing any existing residents. Its proximity to the future Broadway Subway Extension and the Arbutus Greenway would provide its residents with direct transportation options. I want to welcome new members into this community. I urge you to approve this project's application for rezoning when it comes across your desk.	Alexa Ketilson	s22(1) Personal and Confidential	Riley Park	No web attachments.

There is a critical shortage of supportive housing in the city. I live in s22(1) Personal and Confidential, while I also support supportive housing in downtown neighbourhoods, I recognize that the Downtown Eastside can be a difficult place for some to thrive. We shouldn't rely on a single neighbourhood to house everybody who needs a hand up, and every neighbourhood in the city should have affordable housing. The proposed location at 7th and Arbutus is comfortably within Vancouver's urban core and Skytrain will provide excellent access to services and social connections throughout the city. We both have combinations of various disabilities that have restricted our abilities to find work. We are also not eligible for a lot of housing because of my partner's emotional support cat, Trixie. We love our neighbourhood and it has been amazing for our health, especially for my partner who has had long-term concussion symptoms and who would have a lot more difficulty leaving our place if it were not for the beautiful neighbourhood with its plethora of greenery, flowers, and wonderful dogs who were always thrilled to receive our attention during their walks. We now must move further east due to the high cost of rent. Because neither of us can drive, the new venue means we will have to commute an extra 1 to and from classes at UBC every day. I worry how this and our needs to maintain jobs during school will affect our stress (some previous semester I had daydreamed about stabbed if it meant being excused from midterms for a week) and our abilities to commit to the various things besides school that give our lives balance and joy. Most importantly, I know there are others much worse off. Unlike my partner, I have had the privilege of having parents who raised enough money for myself so that I could sustain both our finances during our time thus far. I cannot imagine how this housing crisis has affected those more vulnerable and how many lives would have been made easier or even saved if more housing projects like this were put forward. I cry thinking about possibly living in this neighbourhood again, but I know it means even more to those whose lives have been put to peril by this housing crisis. This city needs housing. Literal lives are on the line. I implore you to approve this project. Homes for people in need should be available throughout Vancouver. Tenants should have access to public transportation, grocery stores, parks, and other neighborhood amenities common to all other residents. This location provides that. Having housing for people who are homeless, once again put through a process similar to a popularity vote is disturbing. Comments on social media fearmongering about the people who will have homes at this project are shameful and I hope that city council can see the future tenants as real people and avoid the negative rhetoric. CD-1 Rezoning: 2086-2098 West 7th Avenue, and 2091 West 8th Avenue	Support	Unhoused persons lack access to appropriate facilities to maintain health, wellness, community, employment, food security, and more. Homelessness is much more costly to the individual and the system than providing supportive housing, for example, Unhoused persons seek emergency medical care much more frequently as a result of being Unhoused, which costs the medical system more per month than the cost to house an individual. Unhoused persons cannot keep and prepare foods safely, so rely on active and available food sources to maintain food security. It makes financial sense to provide supportive housing, which will in turn provide safety & security. Access to city amenities, transit, thriving community with public services such as community centres, libraries, neighbourhoo houses, schools, and local businesses make the Arbutus & 8th area a perfect location for a supportive housing project. There are very few supportive housing locations on Vancouver's westside. Increasing supportive housing on the west side would increase density in an area with increasing empty homes and housing often being used as offshore investment rather than safe dwellings. Providing support for Unhoused individuals in this area could provide much needed capitol for the dwindling labour force as workers living outside Vancouver no longer can afford cost of living here and seek alternatives to long commutes to Kitsilano for work. Every person has a right to safe and adequate housing. And every community has a responsibility to embrace diversity and inclusion. It's not fair that a supportive APARTMENT building is under reconsideration in KITSALANO when supportive temporary modulars, like the one that is going to be created by the talian cultural center is not under review. The upcoming modular is also located by a highway, a high school, seniors facility and close to an elementary school. The modulars also have more likely hood of houseless folks sleeping outside and are more likely to have frequent emergency service visits. I am in support of the modular by the talian cultural center but it is unfair that kitsalno citizens voices are being heard during a public hearing about a supportive apartment building and that there is no public hearing in EAST VAN about the new modular. so this hearing shows how COV only acknowledge and hear voices of citizens in wealthy neighbourhoods. The 50/50 mix proposed is appropriate and should result in a well functioning and socially integrated building. As the report notes, it is important to develop permanent supportive housing as much of the current supply is either poor quality e.g the SROs or temporary. I live close to several supportive/social housing projects and none have been a problem.	Cameron Gray		West End	No web attachments.

APPENDIX A

Dear City Council,

I am an s22(1) Personal and Confidential staff in Kitsilano. I'm also a longtime renter in Kits. Please consider the following when making your decision on the Arbutus project!

Need for more social housing in general

- If the city isn't building social housing on the land that it owns, where no existing residents would be displaced, where will it build?

Need for social & supportive housing in all neighbourhoods

- There's a 30 year gap in life expectancy between different neighbourhoods in Vancouver, and we need social and affordable housing to be spread out throughout the city.

Location

- It makes sense to have social housing beside a new skytrain station. This is also aligned with the city's climate goals.
- Residents at the building can enjoy access to transit, arbutus greenway, etc.

All Housing is beside Parks & Schools!

- The majority of supportive housing in BC is within 500 metres of a school with few issues. This is because our neighbourhoods are designed around schools!
- The way we've designed our cities means that all new social housing can only be built near parks and schools - otherwise, buildings would be in industrial areas, which is inhumane.

Unhoused Neighbours in Kitsilano

- A large number of seniors are experiencing or at-risk of homelessness in Kitsilano with nowhere to go
- Members of the LGBTQ2S+ community are disproportionately at-risk of homelessness. Social housing aligns with the City's goals around equity.
- Many people are just a few paycheques or unexpected challenges away from housing insecurity, especially during a housing crisis.

Building Design

- This isn't "warehousing people" - each unit is a studio apartment with its own bathroom. Amenities will also include kitchens and community meals, dining areas, programming spaces. These will be nice homes!
- Lots of people around Vancouver live in studio apartments

City Commitments

- Approving this building is directly in line with the election commitments councilors made to solving the affordable housing crisis
- It also aligns with policies that Council has passed. Including: City of Reconciliation and Affordable Housing Policy.
- The City's Affordable Housing Policy explicitly talks about: "maintaining and expanding housing opportunities for low and moderate income households; encouraging the distribution of housing equally among residential neighbourhoods".

Sincerely,

Noel Farrand
