06/28/2022	17:00	PH4 - 3. CD-1 Rezoning: 2086-2098 West 7th Avenue, and 2091 West 8th Avenue	Support	It seems obvious to be in support of this development of social housing at these addresses. This city is in desperate need of more housing, especially affordable housing, and the possible short-term blip in house prices is far outweighed at this location by the need for density. Besides, the sheer number of services and amenities that will develop here as a result of the higher density community means that any dip in house prices will be temporary. It is nothing short of callous to walk past the thousands of homeless people in this city, knowing full well that there is space for them in your own neighbourhood, and refuse to make the necessary changes to house them. We desperately need to build housing in the city and to provide vulnerable and low-income folks with homes. Processes like these so often give a huge voice to stigma-based fear. I really want to stress that this neighbourhood is for everyone. Other supportive housing projects are short walks away and are completely blended into the neighbourhood with no issues. Increased density also makes complete sense for a site just off Broadway and one block from the subway station in progress. I really hope that stigma doesn't win your vote tonight. "s.22(1) Personal and Confidential"

06/28/2022	17:15	PH4 - 3. CD-1 Rezoning: 2086-2098 West 7th Avenue, and 2091 West 8th Avenue	Support	Dear Mayor and Council, I live in Kitsilano on "s.22(1)" and am familiar with the site and the area. I often walk or bike up the Arbutus Greenway to Broadway for work, play and shopping. I will continue to happily walk and bike there if you build this housing. I am excited about the prospect of having 129 more units of safe dignified housing for people who need it in our city. It makes me sad to see so many people living rough outside, some of them right there on the Arbutus path, and it is really strange to me that some people seem to think that leaving people to live on the street without supports will make housed people 'safer.' When we all have homes, we are all safer, together. Many people who would benefit from this housing already live, unhoused, in our neighbourhood. My work in Kitsilano and Point Grey for the provincial MLA office means that I meet people who come looking for help with housing, but I also meet potential residents in the park, in the library using the internet, playing guitar in front of the Tim Hortons, and living in cars parked at the beach. Many people in Kitsilano and nearby neighbourhoods have fallen out of their rental housing that they have been in for years. A lot of them are seniors. A lot of them are single men. Some have some issues with addiction or mental health, and some do not--they are just low income and they are our neighbors. I don't agree that issues with addiction or mental health should preclude people from safe housing. It is extremely traumatic to live unhoused, and living with that level of insecurity compounds existing mental health issues, and is a huge barrier to having any kind of stability from which to rebuild a life. Nor do I think that everyone with mental health or addiction issues can or should be concentrated in the Downtown Eastside so that they can be out of sight of the good people of Kitsilano. People who are struggling with homelessness mostly want a quiet, safe place to live, just like people with homes. I wish that we had a lot more than these units to offer for people who need them and I really don't understand a world in which we are actually so worried about possible shadows on a private, gated school nearby that we forego the opportunity to use scarce publicly owned land to provide housing for vulnerable people, in the middle of a housing crisis where many people are living on the streets and in their cars. I recognize that neighbours of the proposed project have real fears, but we need to consider how these fears may have been fostered and inflamed by people with an interest in doing so for their own ends. We also should consider if there are ways to allay these fears other than to deny or delay a project that could give so many people clean, safe homes. I don't feel like it is protecting our children to show them that we would rather step over unhoused people rather than support inclusive housing. Thank you for your consideration. 06/28/2022	18:21	PH4 - 3. CD-1 Rezoning: 2086-2098 West 7th Avenue, and 2091 West 8th Avenue	Support	As a resident near "s.22(1)" and a resident physician working in Vancouver, I strongly support the BC Housing project proposal to build the 12-storey apartment building. I believe offering low-income and shelter-rate affordable housing will further the city's goals of reducing homelessness and providing shelter for people who need to get back on their feet. I understand that the local community may feel that this addition may bring security risks, but we cannot put ourselves first anymore when the stakes are so high for those living on the street or in insecure housing. Overall, our city needs to plan for accomodating people from all walks. Those who choose to or do live in a city must be prepared for change that living in urban areas brings. I support this proposal and encourage the city council to continue working with BC Housing and re-zoning to provide affordable housing for everyone.	Paul Azzopardi		Shaughnessy	No web attachments.

The Kitsilano community I grew up in has been historically of mixed income and welcoming (irrespective of a vocal minority right now). This belongs. Those are for potential homeless people who desperately need housing. There are many studies to show it is much economical to house them compare the cost of all kind of Medical support. 06/28/2022	19 01	PH4 - 3. CD-1 Rezoning: 2086-2098 West 7th Avenue, and 2091 West 8th Avenue	Support	Please, please vote in support of this development. I have an aunt with a severe psychiatric disability and without the help of BC Housing in the 1980s she probably would have been homeless, or at best been living very precariously for a long period of time. Despite the enormous challenges she's had to bear, she was relatively privileged and plain lucky to live day to day without having to worry about her safety or exposure to the elements. It is a misfortune that I have to call her "lucky", but unfortunately one is lucky in this country if they are living with a major disability and also their basic physiological needs met. We continue to harden up as a society and turn our shoulder on policy-caused human suffering. Canada stopped building public housing in the early 90s after the Martin-Chretien austerity budget. If my aunt had been born a generation later and was facing that same need for housing "today", in 2022, I guarantee you the 1000+ person waitlist and poor quality of available housing would make for a far, far more miserable life. All that separates her from someone else living on pavement today is sheer birth lottery. Today we are de facto dumping living humans onto the streets by the thousands in Vancouver because we can't afford to disturb the 'investment model' of housing that has unfortunately become our city's golden goose. I think there's a growing sentiment now that it is unacceptable for a society to backslide like this. I hope you, the Mayor and Councillors, vote to approve this single building. And I hope that you remember your place in history when you vote. Remember that people live and die by your decisions. Thank you. 06/28/2022	19 23	PH4 - 3. CD-1 Rezoning: 2086-2098 West 7th Avenue, and 2091 West 8th Avenue	Support	My name is Colin Sharp, for 6.5 years I've lived at s 22(1), which is just half a block from the proposed project site, and I whole-heartedly support it. My reason for supporting this project is not only the desperate need for housing in this city - a need that I believe has been well documented throughout the process, and is a need that is generally accepted even by opponents of this specific project. I support this project because I think this exact location will be perfect. For residents of the building, they will have easy transit access in one of the new cores of the city, and that will do so much to support their transition to more stable lives. But people that live in the area are concerned about the impact this project will have on their current lives. I understand, but I think it is absolutely a mistake to center our decisions on what we perceive the neighbourhood to currently be. We have to think about what the neighbourhood around a SkyTrain station on Broadway WILL be: and that's a busy hub full of people from all walks of life, experiencing all the ups and downs of living in a city. This SkyTrain station is already approved. It's happening. So I implore every member of council, that when you hear about ways that this project may impact the lives of people that currently live in the area, that you ask yourself "will the new SkyTrain impact them in those same ways?" I would hate to see this project not go forward because of certain impacts, then watch a new SkyTrain station make those same impacts a reality anyways. Let's not lose the chance to house people and make a difference in their lives because of changes that are already coming.	Colin Sharp			Kitsilano	No web attachments.

I work in Point grey and see folks who are unable to get support they need on my commute every day, sleeping in parks bus shelters and alleys, and that is unacceptable. CD-1 Rezoning: 2086-2098 West 7th Avenue, and 2091 West 8th Avenue	Support	I am very excited with this housing project as it is clear that the need for supportive housing is huge in the city and in my neighborhood. People with mental health and addiction issues were children and lived with their families one point in time in their lives until the day that they got sick. Mental illness can affect anyone, at any time in their lives. Therefore, I hope that those opposing this project realize that one day they might be the one's needing supportive housing or their loved ones. I am only a bit disappointed that the number of apartments for those who can only afford $375 were reduced as we need more housing at that rate. However, even with the reduced number at this rate, it will be a good step in the right direction to support the most vulnerable in our society, which can be our sons, daughters, fathers, mothers and friends. With inflation, stagnating wages, and an ever teetering balance of living pay check to pay check in this expensive city that just seems to become more expensive by the month it could be any of us who is down on their luck out on the street.
