Rezoning: 5526-5592 Granville Street and 1498 West 39th Avenue	Support	I've lived in this neighborhood for 8 years, next to one house that's been empty for 7 of those, and another 4-bedroom occupied by a single person. Meanwhile Granville St is congested during both rush hours by commuters who have to live in an outlying suburb. A "Greenest city", as Vancouver wishes to be, needs increased density in its core area, and after visiting cities like Paris, Berlin, and Vienna in the last few years, I find the proposed development healthier for the city and its people than an island of high rises cut off from the rest of the fabric of the city. You can even go over to Fraser St. around 29th to see what these buildings look like.	Eric Promislow	Shaughnessy

As a recent university graduate, I am finding that the housing crisis is pricing me out of Vancouver - the city I have grown up in. I am sure many other young people like me share the same sentiment. For this reason I will always strongly support building more housing, for all income levels. The population is growing in Canada, and these people need homes - we're not going to solve the lack of housing by rejecting attempts to build more housing.	Jesse Li	Marpole
