2025-03-13	17:22	CD-1 Rezoning: 2111 Main Street	Oppose	The optics of tearing down a local community gathering location for artists, as well as festivals and community events is quite bizarre for the city and developers. To promote healthy living, local economic growth, and commercial success of new buildings, surely you'd want to keep local community vibrance and unique locations that would attract new residents and commercial buyers? Housing is needed, but putting up towers in the place where summer concerts and food festivals are held defeats the purpose of attracting more residents in the area when these are the exact community feelings that would attract in the first place	Sunny H	Mount Pleasant
2025-03-13	19:01	CD-1 Rezoning: 2111 Main Street	Oppose	This is one of remaining interesting unique places in the City of Vancouver, culturally and artistically well-loved corner of the Main Street that is worthy of a much better planning to keep its warm and good-neighbour charm. Cold boxy towers speak something else.	No Name No Name	Fairview
