The majority of the community live affordable lives due to having co-op's that have affordable rent prices, , tearing them down and only having 30% return while 70% pay unaffordable rent is outrageous The city is charging people prices that are not liveable, we have schools and neighborhood, and community living here, do not take that away from us. Our schools cannot handle such expansion, they are already maxed out in classrooms sized. You build more housing, then you must build more schools, which will never happen. Pur families first, not you wallets.	Andrea Pandya	Killarney

I call on the City to change this design immediately.  John Lynch [REDACTED]	John Lynch	Dunbar-Southlands
